BRITISH PARLIAMENT REFUSES TO SEEK PEACE; GREEKS ATTACKING KEY BASES

PROPOSAL OF TRIO LABORITES TURNED DOWN BY VOTE 341-4

GRIM SILENCE MARKED COMMONS AS LEFT WINGERS ASK PEACE BE SOUGHT

(By The Associated Press.)

Britain's parliament sternly rejected by a vote of 341 to 4 today a motion by three independent laborites who urged that Britain seek peace immediately.

The house of commons listened in grim silence as the trio demanded that Britain state her war aims and seek to end the war "if necessary in a spirit of compromise."

The three who made the motion, all Scotsmen from Glasgow, are members of the left wing of the British labor movement.

To the cheers of the House, Clement R. Attlee, Lord Privy seal, replied to the left-wing motion with an impassioned denunciation of the "fallacy" of suggesting that "on one side was this terrible war— and on the other side, all the beauties of peace."

"The alternative," he shouted, "is not war and peace. It is war and what kind of peace!"

Attlee, Prime Minister Winston Churchill's deputy in the house, asked James Maxton, one of the trio:

"If it comes to a conference and if Hitler refuses to listen to reason and says he prefers his scheme, will the honorable member fight or give way?"

Greece's slashing counter-invasion armieis hurled dawn attacks today at Porto 'Edda and Argricastro, key Italian bases in southwest Albania, and dispatches from the front said the two cities were about to fall.

Premet Captured.

The Greeks said that they had already captured Premet, midway along the Balkan war front, and that Premier Mussolini's fascist legions were in flight from Porto Edda and Argirocastro.

Athens dispatches said the main road from Porto Edda, Italy's sea gateway to southern Albania, was dominated by Greek guns.

The only avenue of escape left open to the Italians, it was reported, was by a tortuous costal route.

Italy's high command, in its daily war bulletin, said tersely that "attacks and counter-attacks in sectors of two armies took place again," but asesrted that the Fascist air force had heavily strafed the advancing Greeks.

"Our formations of bombing planes and dive bombers bombarded military works, highways bridges, columns of supply trucks and troops on the march in effective actions in co-operation with land forces," the fascist communique said.

Fierce, repeated attacks were centered on the Premet-Perati highway, the communique said, cutting the road "at several points" to impede the victorious Greeks.

Fascists Driven Out.

Dispatches from Athens said the Greeks took Premet, 15 miles inside Albania, in the center of the 100-mile front, after driving the Italians from strongly fortified positions in the Frasheri mountain range, north of the town.

Fighting desperately, the fascists launched a counter-attack with tanks on both flanks of the Greek columns marching up the highway to Premet, but a government spokesman said the

HIGHWAY PROGRAM IN TEXAS DISCUSSED BY CHAIRMAN, BANQUET

BRADY GENTRY PRINCIPAL SPEAKER OBSERVANCE TEXAS HIGHWAY WEEK

By CHARTLON GUNTER,
Daily Sun Staff.

Twenty years would be required to construct, repair and maintain the program of Texas highways needed now at the present rate of income Brady Gentry, chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, told a Corsicana and Navarro County audience at the Navarro Hotel Wednesday night.

The commission chairman was the principal speaker at the observance of "Texas Highway Week" jointly sponsored by the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce and A. F. Mitchell, county chairman for the Texas Good Roads Association.

Joe E. Butler, president of the chamber of commerce, was toastmaster for the occasion, and the invocation was pronounced by W. H. Norwood, superintendent of the Corsicana Public Schools. Entertainment for the evening was supplied by the chamber of commerce quartet composed of Messers E. E. Burkhart, W. B. Waddell, Norman Hardin and M. A. Spurgeon with Miss Carolyn Megarity as accompanist. Their numbers included "Marching Along Together," "Old Faithful," and "God Bless America," and concluded with the audience singing "The Eyes of Texas."

Four Die Result Of New Brazilian Plane Crashing

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Four perons, including two Brazilian army aviators, were killed when one of six planes being ferried from California fell out of formation and crashed in flames in a thatched hut in the tiny village of Santiago De La Pena.

The planes, en route to Brazil for use in training the Brazilian air corps, had just taken off from Tuxpan airport yesterday, when the crash occurred.

Lieut. Enrique Alencastro and Sergeant Enrique Erkins, the crew, burned to death, and a woman and small boy in the dwelling also perished in the flames. Another woman and two children were burned gravely.

The cause of the accident had not been determined.

The plane burst into flames as it smashed into a thatched hut in the tiny village. An unidentified woman and small boy in the dwelling also were killed and another

AN EXPENDITURE OF $35,000,000,000 IN FIVE YEARS FORECAST

APPROXIMATELY $7,500,000,000 YEARLY NEEDED FOR PREPAREDNESS PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—An expenditure of $35,000,000,000 during the next five years would be required, it was estimated today, to carry out the national preparedness program as now formuiated.

This sum is double the amount of appropriations and authorizations made thus far by congress for military defense.

The $35,000,000,000 estimate, the first from official sources projecting defense plans that far into the future, was made by a committee of agriculture department economists in a report entitled "The impact of war and the defense program on agriculture."

The report was prepared for the agriculture department's program board for use in drafting future farm-aid programs.

It estimated calendar year expenditures for the defense purposes for the next five years as follows: 1941, $7,500,000,000; 1942, $9,000,000,000; 1943, $7,500,000,000; 1944, $6,000,000,000; and 1945, $5,000,000,000,000.

The report said that the effect of the defense expenditures upon industrial activity and prices depends to a considerable extent upon how the program is finacned.

"The financing program, as it is developing, seems likely to permit a speedy development of the defense program in the next two years, with the result that in those two years the program will make a large net contribution to national purchasing power."

GREEKS LAUNCH DAWN ATTACK AGAINST TWO LAST FASCIST BASES

FALL OF PORTO EDDA AND ARGIROCASTRO EXPECTED WITHIN SHORT TIME

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Greek sources said that Greek troops entered Porto Edda today and were expected to occupy Argirocastro tomorrow.

The Greeks here said these successes spelled virutal collapse of the Italian campaign on the southern front, which the Fascists had aimed originally at Athens.

In other sectors continued heavy fighting was reported, however, with Italian aviation attempting to stem the Greek advance.

ATHENS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Greek forces launched dawn attacks today on Porto Edda and Argirocastro, Italy's last remaining big bases in the Southwestern corner of Albania, according to a Greek report from the front, and the two cities were reported about to fall.

The main road from Porto Edda, Albania, was said to be under Greek control, but this left open escape by a tortuous coastal route, less improved than the main road running through Argirocastra.

One report, however, said Porto Edda was completely cut off from communication with the rest of Albania. Porto Edda, formerly called Santi Quaranta (forty saints), was renamed for Premier Mussolini's daughter, wife of Foreign Minister Count Ciano.

A dispatch from the Argiracastro area said that the Argirocastro raido station had been silent since last night shortly after it was officially stated in Athens that the Italians were withdrawing from Argiracastro toward Tepelini.

The Greek army earlier announced the capture of the key town of Premet on the central Albanian frost.

The fall of Premet followed

BRITISH-TURKISH FINANCIAL PROGRAM NEW BLOW AT AXIS

SECOND STEP IN INTENSIFIED BRITISH DIPLOMATIC ACTIVITY IS REPORTED

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Britons today described a new financial agreement with Turkey, second step in Britain's recently intensified diplomatic activity, as a wedge against German efforts to draw the guardian of the Daydanelles into the economic orbit of the axis.

The Financial Times said the agreement, signed yesterday, was an "especially bitter blow to Hitler because there is reason to believe the Germans were about to put forward tempering proposals to the Turks."

Diplomatic circles viewed the treaty as an important commercial move and a vigorous political stroke as well and declared it to be a "direct challenge to economic domination in the Bankals," by Germany os represented by yesterday's signing of a 10-year Rumanian-German trade and economic pact.

(Informed circles in Bucharest predicted that increased railroad, highway and pipeline construction to speed up the delivery of oil to

October Payment Of County Taxes Reaches New High

A record payment of current and delinquent taxes in October was seen this year in the monthly report of T. A. Farmer, assessor and collector of taxes. The total collection of state and county current and delinquent taxes, plus beer, occupation and levee payments, amounted to $249,531.10 as compared with $238,756.42 for October, 1939. The 1939 payment was a record until this year. A three per cent reduction was allowed on current taxes paid in October both in 1939 and 1940.

October, 1940, exceeded the corresponding month of 1939 by $11,374.98.

Of the total amount, the state receives $73,688.48, while the various funds of Navarro county is allotted the remaining $165,842.92.

Despite the increased amount of work incident to the new record of tax collections, the report was completed one day earlier than in 1939.

PRESIDENT WANTS ST- LAWRENCE SEAWAY AND POWER PROJECT COMPLETED

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced today he would ask congress, convening in January, to approve a treaty with Canada providing for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project "on which so much of our national safety and welfare depend."

The President's announcement, presaging another battle in congress over the long-debated project (defeated in 1934) was made retary of state, in an address before the Great Lakes Seaway and Power Conference.

President Roosevelt, in a message to the conference read by Berle, emphasized that the St. Lawrence project would provide millions in new horsepower urgently needed to speed up defense production, and create a safe haven and wnterway for construction of ships to replace tonnage sunk in the war.

Emphasizing the need of the St. Lawrence project for defense, President Roosevelt declared:

"The United States needs this great landlocked sea as a secure haven in which it will always be able to build ships and more ships in order to protect our trade and our shores."

The President declared "selfish interests will tell you that I am cloaking this great project in na-

U. S. Volunteers In RAF Addressed By Lady Astor

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—In a fighting speech to the Eagle Squadron of American volunteers in the Royal Air Force, American-born Lady Astor declared today that the "British Empire, backed by the United States cannot fail."

She predicted that the same 30 American volunteers now training for active service alongside British fliers would be followed by "thousands of others."

"America should know that this is really the greatest hour of trial in the history of the English speaking people," said Lady Astor, a native of Baltimore, Md., her eyes flashing. "They may not know it, but it's their turn next."

Turning to the young Americans, organized into a volunteer air force by Colonel Charles Sweeny, Lady Astor exclaimed:

"I knew they would come. Thousands of young Americans are longing to get into this war. It is right that they should.

"As Sherman said, war is hell," she said, "but it more terrible that the civilization we think is based on Christianity should fail."

Captain H. H. Balfour, parliamentary undersecretary for war, also spoke to the volunteers at a luncheon, saying, "we hope your squadron will be followed by the formation of other squadrons impelled by the same motives and imbued with the same ideals."

EIGHT DEAD, EIGHT OTHERS INJURED DUE TO AIRLINER CRASH

JUST WHAT CAUSED UNITED AIR LINES PLANE TO CRASH AT CHICAGO UNKNOWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The death early today of two men brought to eight the number of persons killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago municipal airport. Eight others were injured.

From the lips of survivors and an examination of the wreckage, investigators sought an explanation for the accident which occurred when the 21-passenger mainliner, inbound from the east, plunged nose first into a vacant lot a scant 200 yards from the airport about 6 p. m. last night.

Witnesses said that the big craft apparently lost flying speed when coming in for a landing and dropped from a height of about 150 feet.

The plane grazed a three-story apartment building, broke an electric power line, smashed the gable of a bungalow, and demolished a frame garage before coming to a stop.

Flames shot out from the smashed nose of the plane as it struck the ground. City firemen extinguished the blaze which was confined to the pilot's compartment. The pilot, co-pilot and four passengers were dragged from the wreckage dead or dying. Of the survivors only one was reported in a critical condition.

Ice Formation Scouted.

J. H. Herlihy, vice president in charge of operations for the line, scouted the theory that ice formation on the wings might have caused the crash. He said that pilots are required to radio reports of icing and that none had been made by the plane crew.

Investigators for the civil aeronautics authority withheld announcement of their preliminary findings.

The dead:

Capt. Philip C. Scott, 34, Chicago, the pilot.

First Officer George S. Young 30, Oak Park, Ill., the co-pilot.

Stuart W. Moore, U. S. ordnance engineers, Cleveland.

Wilbert J. Austin, 64, Cleveland, president of the Austin company, a firm of industrial engineers and builders.

Miss Jane Selby, 27, Akron, O., employe of a Chicago candy company.

LONGEST ASSAULT BY RAF REPORTED IN RHINELAND AREA

DUESSELDORF AND INDUSTRIAL ENVIRONS BLASTED NEARLY TWELVE HOURS

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The longest RAF assault on record—nearly 12 hours of blasting at Duesseldorf and her industrial environs in Germany's vital Rhineland—was reported today by the air ministry.

And while one formation battled "filthy" weather to sow its bombs on the German city last night, another lashed at Italy's principal northern center of war industry, Turin. 'Selected" targets were hit there, the ministry said.

Squadrons of British bombers were used to attack Dusseldorf and continued to raid the city at intervals from shortly after 6 p. m. until nearly 6 a. m., the air ministry said.

First pilots dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs which started a dozen fires, it reported. A second wave pilot said his crew counted 15 fires among buildings and a third pilot reported "15 to 20 good fires" in and around the Derendorf yards.

"Flare of fires striking up through cloud banks told of crippling damage," the ministry news service bulletin said.

"A big fire," believed to be a building ablaze," was reported at Dortmund and "heavy bursts' were seen among docks and shipping at Antwerp, Ostend and Calais.

The news service said Turin's armament works underwent a "formidable assault" which was a "further and impressive step in our double attack on Italy from our bases in this country and in the Mediterranean."

DISAPPROVING HOUSE OF COMMONS REJECTS MOTION SEEK PEACE

THREE MEMBERS INDEPENDENT LABOR PARTY WANTS WAR AIMS DECLARED

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A silent, disapproving house of commons rejected by an overwhelming vote of 341 to 4 a motion by three members of the independent labor party today that Britain state her war aims and seek peace immediately, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise," because, they said "There is no certainty of a great military victory."

The vote followed quickly the presentation of the motion by J. McGovern, Campbell Stephen and James Maxton, all from Glasgow.

Supporting the trio, Samuel Silverman, Liverpool Laborite, declared the moment defined by Prime Minister Churchill as the time for the statement of peace aims—"when we have convinced the world of our capacity to survive"—and now arrived.

The authors of the motion are members of the extreme leftist wing of Britain's labor movement.

The four members voting for the motion were Maxton, Dr. Alfred Salter, laborite, William Gallacher, the only communist member of parliament; and David Kirkwood, another laborite. McGovern and Stephen were named tellers, hence could not vote.

Declaring that peace efforts are "not discreditable," J. McGovern asserted:

'If the war goes on—as it likely is to do if the forces in operation today have their way without any attempt to end it—until February of next year, I expect that there will be intensive bombing from this country, and if that is so the large reserves which Germany has been piling up will be utilized for the purpose of subjecting every industrial city in this country to a Coventry raid."

Prime Minister Churchill was absent as the three independent laborites, McGovern, James Maxton and Campbell Stephen—all from Glasgow—demanded that Britain's war aims be stated and called for "restoration of freedom in each country, the establishment of a new social order which would mean the end of German, British and other imperialism and provide a decent home and standard of life for each family in every country of the world."

"No opportunity should be lost to end the war," contended McGovern, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise."

Before the debate began Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, assured the house that "progress has been made and is being made in solving the problem of night interception (of German bombers) but it is a matter of some complexity and can only be dealt with gradually."

Nazis Want More Food

ROME, Dec. 5.—(AP)—An Italian German agreement to increase Italy's not yet satisfactory flow of food supplies to Germany by intensifying farm prduction here and giving aid to growers was disclosed today by Stefani, official Italian news agency.

The agency said Italian farm production did not yet meet German needs and therefore Giuseppe Tassinari, Italian minister of agriculture, and Walter R. Darre, German agriculture minister, had recently reached an agreement to intensify the axis farm collaboration.

UNITED STATES ARMY NATION'S BUSIEST SCHOOLMASTER DUE TO TRAINING IN MANY BRANCHES

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In a series of three stories written for the Associated Press special news service and The Daily Sun, Edward E. Bomar pictures the expansion of the United States Army as seen in an aerial tour of key army posts. His first story tells of the Army's joint role as schoolmaster and drillmaster.)

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The vast undertaking of expanding fourfold the American land forces already has made the army the nation's busiest schoolmaster, with the induction of selective service barely sctarted.

Mostly in hurriedly-built barracks-like schools that combine classrooms and workshops, officers and men by the thousands are being trained quickly as specialists of all kinds for a mechanical age fighting force.

The mobilizing army needs, in a hurry, radio operators, electricians, motor mechanics and accountants for the ground forces as well as pilots for warplanes. They are being trained in mass by commissioned and non-commissioned officers who already have been through the mill.

Absorbing of recruits follows a traditional pattern. In the manner of an amobea, the army is expanding by division and multiplication toward the total of a million and a half men contemplated next summer.

Just as the tiny form of animal life multiplies by splitting its single cell into two, each becoming a separate amoeba, regiments and divisions are proving cadres of trained troops to form the basic units for new fighting components of the land forces.

Existing units, to be sure, must not be robbed dangerously of veterans or diluted too greatly with raw recruits.

By Spring, general staff officers hope the worst of the difficulties from mushroom growth will have been surmounted. Beginning March 15, replacement centers are to start operation where selective service trainees will be put through the first 13 weeks of their year's military service, under established instructors.

Build to Full Strength.

Beginning then, commanders of fighting units hope they can build their forces up to full strength without being called on to rob the

INDICATED MAJOR OFFENSIVE OF BRITISH AGAINST ITALIANS MAY SEE SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT M'KENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

The major offensive which the British indicate they are inaugurating against Signor Mussolini wth the idea of knocking him out of the war is likely to see sensational developments in several directions.

For one thing there is a growing possibility that the strong French military forces in Northern Africa may defy their Vichy government and throw their lot in with the British, once the campaign is in full swing. As a matter of fact, from the wishful thinking being done in London I have a hunch the Britons are gambling a bit that they may be able to win their former colonial allies over.

The British need this help. It's certain that while they probably can go far in their offensive on the strength of their naval and air forces, they will have to employ very considerable land contingents to deal with the Fascist armies in Africa. The Italians numerically are much the stronger—perhaps by more than two to one.

One of the Chief obstacles with which the British will have to deal is the half million men under that famous desert fighter Marshal Graziani, who in September started to invade Egypt from Libya and then got hung up for some not satisfactorily explained reason. That crafty old warrior can't be brushed out of Africa with a feather duster.

The British have said that they are preparing to transport troops from England into the Mediterranean area. However, they will be fortunate in my view if they are able to move in the immediate future all the men and equipment they need.

Herr Hitler's fierce submarine campaign bids fair to render movement of troop-ships a very precarious business. That, of course, is one of the feuhrer's objectives on his intensified U-boat and aerial warfare. He is trying to relieve the pressure on his unhappy axis partner who already has his hands more than full with his Greek adventure.

Thus it is clear why the British are turning hopeful eyes toward General Weygand, chief of military and political affairs in French Africa, who has some 500,000 well-equipped troops at his disposal.

Should these troops throw them-

NEW NATIONAL POLICY STEMS BACK INTO OLD BIBLE STORY*

Parable of Good Samaritan Finds Place in Modern Politics—"Who Is My Neighbor?"—Compassion the Hall-Mark of the Jesus Way.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Not everybody who nowadays uses the phrase "Good Neighbor" knows the source of the saying. Its present vogue in the western hemisphere—alas! it is rarely heard in Europe—marks the rise of the teachings of Jesus into the political philosophy of the New World.

For the "good neighbor" was the Good Samaritan, in the tale told by the peerless Story-teller who wrapped profoundest principles in parables. A quibbling lawyer, trying to entrap Jesus, had posed the question, "Who is my neighbor?" In answer, the Teacher told of a traveller on the Jerusalem-Jericho road who had been waylaid and beaten by robbers. Two professional religious dignitaries saw the victim, but passed by on the other side. A Samaritan, a layman and a member of the mongrel race whom all good Jews despised, came along and stopped and bound up the wounds of the half-dead man, treating them with oil and wine from his travel store; and then on his own beast bore him to the nearest inn. When he had to move on, he paid the innkeeper two shillings for the wounded man's care, and promised to meet and other bills. To Christ's way of thinking, that unorthodox Samaritan was the Good Neighbor.

On the Jericho Road.

When I first rode on horseback down the Jericho Road it was pretty much in the original condition, and still a hideout for robbers. The British have made it into a modern motor highway, with easy curves and grades, through these barren gray hills, so that modern Jerusalemites may spend winter week-end down in the warm Jordan Valley.

In passing, it is worth noting that here, as in countless other instances, the Bible narrative is true to geographical facts. The text reads, "A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho." He did indeed: that road descends 3,400 feet in the twenty miles between the two cities. There is no other such rapid descent on the earth's surface, except on mountain sides.

Some Pollyanna commentators, seeking excuse for the priest and Levite, picture them as speeding toward imperative duties in the Temple; but the story itself portrays them as going down toward Jericho.

An Incident in Russia.

It is rather startling that Jesus, Himself the head of the Church, should in this familar parable, picture two ecclesiastics as failures in neighborliness. Throughout the ages, the Church has been the best exponent of good will, good neighborliness and good service to humanity.

No theological orthodox can take the place of helpful neighborliness. During the war, at the time of the pre-bolshevik revolution in Russia, I was in Petrograd. In the course of my newspaper work, I kept an appointment for an interview with the Procurator of the Holy Synod, the head of the Russian Church. While I waited in his ante-room, along with a group of priests, a peasant came in. He was a typical moujik, his long hair and beard in disorder, his person aid clothes dirty, and his voice rising high. He had come, he said, to seek justice from the Church for eighty-six peasants in his village who had been greatly wronged. In his simple mind, the Church should be the natural friend of the oppressed.

But the sleek ecclesiastics merely made sport of him. They regarded his presence as an amusing relief to the tedium of awaiting an audience. I can still see one well-fed and well-dressed priest, combing his long beard as he talked, baiting the befuddled peasant. That scene recurs to me as I read the various reasons for the fall of the Russian Church: it failed in the supreme orthodoxy of neighborliness.

The Sharp Lawyer.

Before the Good Samaritan story was told, there appears in the record the shrewd lawyer who was one of the many emisasries sent to entrap Jesus into admissions that could be used against Him. He was not an honest seeker after truth, but a quibbler with words. What Longfellow calls

"The strift for triumph more

is the mark of the essentially dishonest man. Whatever one of us seeks to win an argument, rather than to find out a truth, he is in the class of this pettifogging lawyer whom Jesus confounded by a simple story.

There was more meaning in the closing admonition of the Master to the lawyer than appears on the surface. His "Go thou and do likewise" may properly be expanded, "Quit your clever and disingenuous dialectics, and go practice the primary virtues. There is more religion in plain, neighborly helpfulness than in the formal recitation of creeds. Talk less and do more."

The Jesus Hall-Mark.

Jesus was singularly free from prejudices. He entertained no class or racial antagonisms. True, He was hard on ecclesiastical politicians; but they were traitors to true religion. To the scandal of good Jews, Jesus was friendly with Samaritans. The barb in the arrow of His rejoinder to the lawyer was that He made the hero of the story a Samaritan as better than a priest and a Levite.

The greatest orthodoxy—and the judgment-day test—is the spirit of service. It may fairly be said that the hallmark of Jesus was compassion. He always looked upon humanity with eyes of compassion; so "He went about doing good." We are walking in His steps when we are helping folks. Practical neighbordliness is real religion. We are "saved to serve."

The News From London.

Back of the black news from London, during recent months, has been the bright news of the attainment of a new high in human neighborliness and helpfulness. Every form of service has been done, in disregard of danger, by all sorts of persons. In this hour of unprecedented trial, the world is more closely approximating the Master's teaching of the good neighbor.

This truth has moved up onto the higher levels of statesmanship. The United States and Canada, always good friends, are now, in new and larger and more practical meanings, good neighborliness is binding all the nations of the New World into a fresh and significant unity. By the same impulse, we are proving ourselves good neighbors to China; and to all the other oppressed nations which lie, like the smitten wayfarer on the Jerico Road, victims of greed and cruelty.

Our common dream is that, after the war, the whole world may come to be one neighborhood and one brotherhood, according to the definition of Jesus.

DR. ELLIS' NEW BOOK.

Out of his repeated and extensive travels in Bible Lands, Dr. William T. Ellis has gleaned a unique bookful of daily meditations—"Pilgrim Fare From Bible Lands," just published by The Association Press. Each of the daily articles for a year is based upon some Bible Lands experience or fact; with a spiritual application. The range of information is unusual. While primarily intended for daily devotional use, the handsome volume is a gold-mine of illustrative material for preachers and Sunday School teachers.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.

To travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive.—Stevenson.

Let us, then, be up and doing
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing,

NAVARRO COUNTY COTTON GROWERS VOTE ON SATURDAY

REFERENDUM WILL DECIDE ON COTTON MARKETING QUOTA FOR 1941

Navarro county cotton growers will vote in the marketing quota referendum Saturday, Dec. 7, when it will be decided whether this program will be carried forward for 1941, Ray R. Keeling chairman of the county AAA committee, has announced.

"Every farmer who produced cotton in 1940 should go to his community polling place on Dec. 7, and express his opinion on quotas for 1941. A large majority of cotton growers voting will mean that the referendum outcome represents the true opinion of producers as a while" Keeling's statement continued.

The polls will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 7 p. m. on election day at the following places in Navarro county:

Rural Shade, Kerens, Rice, Powell, Navarro, Corsicana, Enhouse, Purdon, Blooming Grove, Frost, Dawson, Eldorado, and Richland.

Reviewing the referendum background, Keeling pointed out ther are two important factors for growers to consider; First, that a marketing quota is provided by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 when cotton supplies are 7 per cent or more above normal, and, second, that a two-thirds majority of the growers voting in the cotton belt are required to put quotas into effect.

The cotton supplies are now 37 per cent above normal, Keeling's statement revealed, with the world supply of American cotton estimated at 25,000,000 bales, as compared with the normal supply—which is made up of normal exports and domestic consumption plus an adequate allowance for carry-over of about 18,000,000 bales.

No Consumption Increase.

The county chairman pointed out that increased world consumption of American cotton is not indicated in the immediate future due to war conditions.

Cotton loans, which have relped this year in maintaining cotton farmers' incomes, can be made available to cotton growers in 1941 only if marketing quotas are approved in the referendum Saturday, it was stated.

"With the present restricted export outlets, and in spite of an expanding domestic consumption, cotton today probably would be selling for the lowest price in history, were it not for loans which have placed a floor under the price," Mr. Keeling asserted. He pointed out that if marketing quotas are not approved in the referendum, the 1940 cotton loan program will have to cease at the time ballot results are announced, and a loan could not again be available until August 1, 1942.

ENLISTMENTS FOR ARMY AIR CORPS ARE NEEDED AT PRESENT

Col J. A. Moss, commanding officer of the Dallas recruiting district, was here Wednesday in the interest of U. S. Army air air corps.

He said that the army needed mechanics for the air corps and that this division offered an excellent opportunities for high school graduates between the ages of 18 and 35.

Flying cadets are also needed, he said. Young men between the ages of 20 and 27 years with two years college education, or who could successfully stand an examination prepared especially for them, were eligible.

The army expects to turn out 1,000 graduates in the air corps per month for the next year, the Col. stated, and added that the cadets drew good pay from the start. At the start of the year there were fifty combat squadrons in the air corps and there are now 109 and others are being added as rapidly as possible.

Sergeant M. A. Strickland is in charge of the total recruiting office and will take applications for either the mechanics or flying cadets.

HILLSBORO COLLEGE HEAD WAS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT BANQUET

PEP SQUAD SPONSORED SESSION ATTENDED BY 185 PATRONS AND FRIENDS

By PAUL MOORE
Sun Sports Editor.

Members of the 1940 Blooming Grove Lions football club, runners-up in the A division of District 21-B, were honored Tuesday night at the annual football banquet in Isbell Hall at Blooming Grove. This banquet was sponsored and served by the pep squad. L. W. Hartsfied, president of the Hillsboro Junior College, was the principal speaker. W. A. Sloan, superintendent of the Blooming Grove schools, was the master of ceremonies. There were 185 present at the banquet

The invocation was given by Rev. Robert Williams, pastor of the Central Baptist church, while the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Maggart B. Howell, pastor of the Methodist church.

Visitors included R. D. Scott, assistant coach; Mr. Tindell, Rice; Miss Virginia Jackson, Rice; Earl Fisk, Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs Guy Huddleston, Hillsboro; Coach and Mrs. Bill Maxwell, I. O. O. F. Home, Corsicana, and others.

Group singing was led by the pep squad leaders, Misses Gelene Jordan, Joan King and Sarah Ho Johnson. Malba Jayne Goodrich, "Football Sweetheart," was also presented.

The tables and the huge gymnasium were decorated by blue and white pennants, the school colors

A skit, presented by members of the faculty and students, drew considerable applause. Participants included Mr. Thompson, R. D. Scott, M. S. Hammett, W. M Morris, Quintin Barber, Misses Maxine Mitchell, Ollie Guthrie, Jerry Jackson, Helen Merritt, Mattie Lou Hollingsworth and Elizabeth Dobbs, of the faculty, and Pattie Lou Westbrook, Melba Jean Page, Geneva Page and Nolola Pierce. The skit was entitled: "We Want The Touchdown."

In the beginning of his address, President Hartsfield referred to the over-specialization in economy, education, law, medicine and other fields. He stated many people were telling what was wrong with the world but don't tell how to improve the situation. He asserted they just talk and do a lot of shallow thinking.

Football Results

Turning his remarks primarily to the football club, the speaker outlined three things that football should help boys in finding their paces. The first was the fixing within the thinking for some definite aim and objective teamwork and the acquiring of talent and ability to put forth the effort necessary to attain the objectives.

The college head urged the youngsters to realize their purpose. He said many young men and women chose the hard way to their goals and spent six or seven years in hard work in educating themselves for their goal. A sense of loyalty to the team and comrades is taught by football. All can't be leaders, and football teaches "followship," enabling the boys to recognize true leadership.

Talent For Hard Work.

"No talent is equal to the talent of hard work," the speaker stressed. Any football prospect must put hard work first and realize without hard work he never will be a football star, President Hartsfield stated, and the same condition applies in any line of of endeavor

The college head gave the following definition for success:

"Success is making hay of the grass growing under others feet."

Lettermen Announced.

The following lettermen were announced by Coach C. T. Warrington:

Jimmie Doyle Carroll and Robert Sheppard, co-captains; Bill Gillen, Jackie Dale Jordan, Elton McClure, Mike Shaw, Dwayne Garrison, J. C. Howard, Wayne Holditch, Noel Furra, Ellis Montgomery, Jimmie Patterson, Johnnie Gordon, Ben Brooks, Pete Curry, Bill Baggett, Warren Brown, manager. Other members of the squad are Jimmie Carroll, R. C. Staggs, J. F Ballew, Ray Dean Carroll, Tommie Truelove and Truman Neely.

Blooming Grove finished in second place in the A division of District 21-B, losing only in conference play to Italy Gladiators, division and district champions.

AIRLINE CRASH

land, general sales manager National Refiners' Company.

Manville and Melton, both of whom suffered fractured skulls and other injuries, died early this morning in Holy Cross hospital.

Eight Others Injured.

The list of injured:

Stewardess Florence M. Little, 23, Chicago;

Owen M. Frederick. 52, Olmstead, Ohio;

George Haig, 45. Dayton, O.;

Paul Ryan, 40, Cleveland;

Rolliston G. Woodbury, 41, New York City;

Theodore F. Paulsen, 40, Wilmette, Ill.;

Leo Wolins, 37, Chicago;

Richard R. Pettito. 26, Bostonia, Calif.

The flight began at New York and stops were made at Philadelphia, Akron, O., and Cleveland. Dissatisfied with the performance of one motor, Capt. Scott was given another plane at Cleveland to which crew and passengers were transferred.

A light snow was falling when the plane reached Chicago.

Weather reports put the ceiling at 1,200 feet and visibility at one mile. Planes had been landing in routine fashion.

The airliner circled the airport for 28 minutes awaiting landing orders from the traffic control tower. It headed in from the southeast after getting clearance orders and Co-Pilot Young radioed that the ground could be seen Richard Rocas, an employe at the airport, said the plane was making a "perfectly normal" approach to the field when suddenly the motors roared as if the pilot tried to attain height.

"The plane's nose dipped down and it turned slightly to the left," he said. "Then it hit the ground and broke into flames."

BRITISH

The chief objective was the Royal arsenal, it was said, and "much was done to reduce its output of guns, gun carriages, shell cases and tanks."

British planes were over the Royal arsenal nearly two hours, the news service said. One pilot reported a building was "completely on fire with heavy black smoke" coming from it.

"There were so many fires and explosions," said another pilot, "that you couldn't distinguish the effect of our bombs falling among them.

Two sticks of bombs burst directly on the main buildings of the factory and "a glow was seen which developed into an internal fire," the air ministry said.

FOUR DIE

woman and the children were burned gravely.

Inspector Luis Lopez Malo from the department of civil aviation in the communications ministry and Secretary Renato Mendoza of the Brizilian embassy witnessed the crash.

Commanded by Mapor J. S. Macedo, the scix planes took off in formation at 1:50 p.m. central time enroute to Terjeria airport at Vera Cruz City, a flight of about 150 miles.

The squadron had hardly pointed south, still at low altitude, when the plane bearing Aencastro and Sergeant Enrique Erkens crashed.

The other five planes returned to the Tuxpan airport.

Germany would result from the pact.)

Details of the British-Turkish agreement, which followed closely a commercial accord between Spain and Britain, were not made public but it was understood generally that the United Kingdom commercial corporation set up last April would play a big part in arranging sales and purchases.

At the same time ,experts expected purchases under the agreement would run into millions of pounds sterling, with Turkey sending Britain mainly agricultural products in exchange for woolens, cotton, locomotives, wagons and munitions.

"Under the new arrangements," The Times declared, "Turkey will be free to develop her economy in co-operation with the British Empire. On our side we now effectively challenge the great German share of the Turkish market."

TRAINING

ranks of their best men for drillmasters.

Newspaper correspondents who made an 11-day aerial survey tour under war department escort saw the army in the role of schoolmaster as well as drillmaster at major posts in the West and South.

At Mushrooming Fort Knox, Ky. the school for the new armored forces was going full blast in an area which the director, Lieutenant Colonel Stephen H. Henry, explained was "a weed patch and mudhole only three months ago."

With 60 officers and 800 men learning to operate and repair complex communication apparatus which enable hundreds of tanks to operate as a unit on the battlefield, the radio school there already is the army's largest. In other wooden buildings officers and men were learning the intricacies of tank engines and treads. Outside 100 men at a time were being taught to ride motorcycles.

Hammering on numerous partly-completed structures nearby reminded that the school was in a preliminary stage.

"On February 1 we expect to be ready to introduce mass production in education," Colonel Henry said.

"Operating on double shifts, we will put 5,000 men through this 1,800-man plant, graduating 500 a week."

At Fort Riley, Kansas, the cavalry shool is undertaking to train 900 reserve and national guard officers a year, in contrast with the normal peacetime group of about 45 regular army officers.

At Randolph Field, Texas, West Point of the Air, the demand of the expanding air corps for pilots, observers and bombardiers is such that cadets completing the concentrated pilot-training course at nearby fields are being assigned immediately as instructors.

Ten days schooling in methods of instructing others to fly fighting planes is sandwiched in between thet crowded Randolph Field courses. Then the new instructors are put to work at Randolph, Maxwell Field, Alabama, or Moffett Field, California, the three new main centers of production for army fliers.

At Fort Sill, Okla., Brigadier General Donald C. Cubbison, the commandant, said he 'would not be surprised" if the army's field artillery school had expanded by next fall to a size beyond that reached in the World War, when 1,200 officers were trained at the peak in addition to 2,400 under instruction in France.

More than 500 reserve and other officers are in school there now, and schedules call for 850 in January.

Officers stressed that these schools represent only a fraction of the army's task of emergency schooling. The navy, a more technical arm, is even busier, and such government agencies as the National Younth Administration have undertaken to train mechanics on a scale dwarfing in size the efforts of the armed services.

A large proportion of the 800,000 drafted men to be called out by next summer are to be assigned to schools, under war department plans, many to be taught trades as valuable in peace as in war.

"But I tell you," he declared, "that it has always been dear to me because I recognized its vital importance to the people in peace and in war."

Gleaners Union Of Powell Met Monday

selves on Graziani from the rear, thus putting him in a vise, his position would indeed be precarious if not utterly hopeless.

It is a fair guess that Egypt will come into the war with the British, thereby adding very considerable military support. It would appear, too, that little Ex-Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is in process of working up a revolt among his people against the Italians.

Christmas Meeting Of Kerens PTA Was Impressive Affair

KERENS, Dec. 5.—(Spl.)—The Kerens Parent-Teacher Association observed its Christmas meeting on the evening of December 3, with a beautifully effective candle-lighting ceremony, which was held in the high school auditorium and was open to the public.

The stage was centered with a floor to ceiling cedar tree, decorated in keeping with the season, with myriad colored lights, and silvered icicles. On each side of the tree, slightly toward the front, stood tall white floor candelabra, holding sixteen white candles, which had been lighted by Boy Scouts Bobbie Brister and Jackie Posey, who also acted as ushers, and held tapers for program participants.

Mrs. W. D. Bruner, program chairman, directed the impressive candle dedication, which was preceded by an invocation by Rev. C. C. Sessions, and a number of Christmas carols, directed by choir leader, Mrs. A. S. Pritchard with Mrs. Lacy Garrett and Miss Bertie Mae Stevens at the piano and violin.

The entire audience joined in the singing of the old familiar and beloved carols, without which a service of this sort would be incomplete.

Walking to the stage and lighting a candle in the order listed, the following dedications were made, each with a few appropriate words of explanation:

To Music, Mrs. Wade Price.
To Childhood and Youth, Mrs. T. L. Whorton, P. T. A. president.

Eureka Methodist Women Met Tuesday In Regular Session

The Eureka Methodist Womans Society for Christian service, met at the home of Mrs. Jim Stewart Tuesday, Dec. 3.

The meeting was opened with the songs, "Work for the Night is Coming," and "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone."

Mrs. Fidnley Ward led in prayer. We then sang the chorus of, "Oh, How I Love Jesus."

The secretary, Mrs. Estelle Montgomery called the roll with twelve members answering present. She then read the minutes.

Instead of taking care of any busjness at the business part of our meeting, we planned a social and Christmas tree to be held at Mrs. Hazelwood Thomas' on Tuesday, Dec. 17. All members, who would like to join us in having a good time at our Christmas party, be present at 2:30 o'clock with a Christmas gift not exceeding the price of twenty-five cents. Nice refreshments have been planned. Be merry at this particular time of year when all hearts should be lifted toward Christ, whose birth made Christmas a reality.

Mrs. Porter gave an interesting devotional, taken from the fifteenth chapter of Proverbs.

Mrs. Stewart then read two lovely poems entitled "The Black Sheep's Friend," and "I know Something Good About You."

The sweeping list was discussed, and everybody was reminded to sweep the church on her date or else pay 25 cent to the Missionary Society. This money is used for a good cause so don't hesitate to pay.

The meeting was turned over to the teacher, Mrs. Dave Garrett, who taught the lesson from the third chapter of Galations. We closed with the benediction. The hostess, Mrs. Stewart served delicious cookies, peached and whipped cream.—Reporter.

INTERNATIONAL

Greeks drove off the tanks and the battle "ended in an Italian rout."

More than 500 fascist troops were said to have surrendered.

Athens also expected the fall at any moment of both Porto Edda—the Adriatic seaport named for Mussolini's daughter—and Argirocastro, Italy's last big war base in southern Albania.

A tribute to the "extraordinary valor" of the Greeks was voiced in England by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison, who declared: "The example of Greece gives us a reminder that courage, brains, and inflexible determination can upset the calculations of a bully as swiftly, as unexpectedly as David with his sling overthrew the clanking champion of the Philistines."

Aid to Britain.

The question of stepped-up American aid to Britain—perhaps a huge financial loan or the hinted placing of United tates industry on a 24-hour "war time' schedule—gained prime attention in Washington, D. C.

Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, arrived at the capital to lay the Empire's financial cards on the table before Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Coincidentally, Senator Hiram Johnson (R-Calif), predicting an imminent drive to repeal laws now barring loans to Britain and other world war-debt defaulters, asserted that barring a miracle "there is no doubt the United States will go to war."

In the British House of Commons, a demand that Britain seek immediate peace because "there is no certainty of a great military victory" was voiced by three independent labor party M. P.'s.

They also insisted that Britain's war aims should be declared—a topic on which Prime Minister Winston Churchill has kept silent except to say "we are fighting for our lives—our existence."

In urging the peace move, J. McGovern, fire-brand Scotsman, declared that "if the war goes on until next February" Germany would throw in large-scale reserves to counter British bombing and subject "every industrial city in this country to a Coventry raid."

Nazi Air Force Busy.

In the war in the west, the German air force ranged widely over Britain again last evening, broke off its attack shortly before midnight and then returned to the assault early this morning.

The Midlands and London were the focal points of last night's raids.

The Royal Air Force struck back with raids which the air ministry said were aimed at Duesseldorf, Germany, and sent its bombers ranging over the Alps once more to strike at Italy's northern industrial city of Turin.

Britons, meanwhile, hailed as a diplomatic achievement a new financial agreement with Turkey which they viewed as a wedge against German efforts to draw the guardian of the Dardanelles into the axis orbit.

Also of interest on the diplomatic front was news from Moscow that Soviet Russia had advised Tokyo her policy toward China would be unchanged by Japan's recognition of Wang Ching Wei's Nanking regime as the Chinese "national government."

New native uprisings were reported in western Cochin China, province of French Indo-China, which is embroiled with Thailand (Siam). French authorities announced, however, that they had halted "reprisals for Siamese attacks" so that diplomats could try to settle the little kingdom's territorial demands.

TOTAL DEFENSE.

Milo J. Warner, national commander of the American Legion, cuts through the talk of "no foreign war" with some straightforward remarks.

Our people, he says, "must be prepared to do our fighting outside the United States—not for the salvation of any other country—but for America." It is his idea that protection of America demands the ability to meet any possible invasion before it arrives, "so that our homes may remain intact, our families secure."

He is not advocating a declaration of war on anybody, or the sending of troops abroad. He is simply facing unpleasant possibilities in the belief that foreseeing them may forestall their development into realities.

"America's immediate task is to give all practicable aid to Great Britain and to those aligned with her in her fight. It is our duty as citizens to face facts as they are and not as we would like to have them.

"With that, at all times, goes the keen desire and determination to avoid war if possible, but in any event to preserve our own form of government and its basic concepts."

There is vastly more to this than military preparedness. All of us not directly engaged in physical defense activity should do our part in defending, cherishing and strengthening the ideals and way of life that make Americanism worth fighting for.

TOYS IN MODERATION.

Most parents buy most toys just before Christmas. In fact, says a child psychologist, about 95 per cent of all toys are bought at the same time. He argues that it would be better for the child if he got fewer toys for Christmas and then had a new one given him occasionally during the year.

It may be argued that if a child had toys descend upon him at regular intervals throughout the year much of the magic of Christmas might be lost. But a balance could doubtless be attained, and perhaps some of the confusion, weariness and commercialism now attending the Christmas festival might thus be escaped.

The principle of giving gifts at Christmas time is a lovely thing and by all means to be retained. But too much of anything at any time makes trouble. The wise parent whose offspring is bewildered by too many loving donations from friends and relatives suggests to the child that some of them be put away for a while. There is almost always one toy which appeals to a child more than the others at the moment, anyhow, and he is usually quite willing to dispense temporarily with some of the rest. Then on a rainy holiday a fresh toy from the Christmas store brings fresh delight.

START-STOP MUSSOLINI.

Mussolini once started being a pacifist, and stopped. Then he started hating the Germans and all their works. He stopped that and joined Hitler. Now he's started to conquer Greece and says he's once started on his way he never tops.

Maybe he thinks he won't. But so far, when he has found himself under pressure from strong outside forces, he has given in. This time, in his struggle with Greece, he finds himself opposed not only to the brave and warlike handful of troops which make up the Greek army, but to Britain. He finds himself opposed, also, to all the freedom-loving thought in the world.

Nobody loves Benito any more, neither folks at home nor folks abroad. He's hoeing a lonesome and thankless row. He might, out of sheer force of numbers, win the immediate fight with Greece. But he's losing his share of this completely unjustified and idiotic war.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1937, Edgar A. Guest)

BLACK SHEEP'S FRIEND.

We knew where the money she borrowed was taken.
It went to the black sheep we all had forsaken.
We knew where she went when she slipped out alone
She was keeping a tryst with him made on the phone.
We knew that whatever she gathered she gave him.
We had flung him aside but she still hoped to save him.

'Twas years since his father had given up, disgusted.
That black sheep of hers could no longer be trusted.
His frailties were many; an outcast was he,
The disgrace of the family, sorry to see.
But this was the way of her; somehow or other
That black sheep could always get help from his mother.
Whenever we urged her, like us, to refuse him
The aid that he asked for she'd always excuse him.
She remembered an illness he'd had in his youth,
Blamed that for his failures and thought it the truth.
She was proud of us all, but this oft was the jest of us:
The black sheep was loved more than all of the rest of us.

Whatever we gave her we knew he'd be sharing it.
When a coat vanished we knew he was wearing it.
She sacraficed comfort and pleasure and pride
To give to the black sheep what others denied.
And in spite of the harsh things the world muttered of him,
To the end of her days she continued to love him.

THE INSISTENT DRAFTEE

Whether or not a cat ever looked at a king or a man ever bit a dog, it develops that a rejected draftee has appealed from his draft board's decision because he wants to have his quota of military training, and now!

The story is that the draft board physician turned him down because of a faulty heart. He spent his own money to consult a heart specialist. He was told that his heart was sound enough for army service. So he's taken his case back to the draft board and insists on acceptance.

"I think Army service would build up my general health and, also, I'd like to get my service out of the way."

This dispute may not be important to any one but the man concerned, but it reminds the reader of other complaints frequently heard to the effect that the physical standards for military service and the intellectual requirements for flyers are too strict. Men are kept out of the country's defense forces—land, sea, or air—who are actually capable of giving good service and standing up under the arduous demands of the military life. Some of them, it is said, find better places in the Canadian forces than they tried to get at home. Is a little more flexibility called for here?

ARMY NEEDLEWORK.

Among the articles the well-equipped draftee should take to camp, according to the head of the Selective Service Administration, is a sewing kit. Prominent among those he should not take is a bass fiddle.

Both requirements are understandable. There wouldn't be room in camp for bass fiddles for everybody, so individuals will just have to worry along without them.

The sewing kit is something else. Garments have to be mended; buttons have to be sewed on; socks, no doubt, have be darned. A man in the army must know how to do these things for himself because there are so many times when no help is available. Perhaps mothers and wives should give a few lessons in needle-threading before their men go off to camp.

HIGHWAYS

Austin, head of the highway maintenance engineering department; Judge John H. Sharp, associate justice of the Supreme Court of Texas; J. O. Sessions of Bazette, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Tillman, Jr., of Blooming Grove; Cyril Moore and Thomas B. West of Roane; E. J. Kendall, Jr., of Ennis; J. D. Thornton of Kerens, R. P. Garrett of Whites Chapel, County Judge-elect E. D. McCormick and wife of Frost; Dr. E. L. Evans, mayor of Frost, and wife, and Drew Gillen, county commissioner-elect, Blooming Grove.

Toastmaster Butler explained observance of "Texas Highway Week" was sponsored on a statewide scale by the Texas Good Roads Association in an effort to acquaint the general public with the work of the highway department and to arouse sufficient public sentiment to prevent further diversions of the proceeds from the gasoline tax. He asserted Corsicana was glad to take part in the program and said the state was fortunate in having the most efficient highway department in the nation which was devoting all its energies to providing an adequate system of connecting roads. He praised Mr. Gentry for his sense of fairness and justice which had been demonstrated during his tenure on the highway commission.

Record of Service.

He then presented Allin F. Mitchell, county chairman of the observance, who pointed out this week had been designated for special notice in a proclamation issued by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel. He insisted the progress of the Texas highway program depended on the education of the general public to the needs of the state, and pointed to a record of constant service by the department since its organization. Asserting the public must be kept constantly informed if progress was maintained in the financing and construction of roads, he presented Lowry Martin, twice past president of the Texas Good Roads Association, to introduce the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Martin complimented the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce for its general interest in highways and for aiding in the special observance, and paid special tribute to the work of President Butler, and also J. N. Edens, chairman of the local highway committee. He pointed out that Gov. O'Daniel had honored Central Texas through the appointment of Mr. Mitchell to a place on the State Board for the Registration of Professional Engineers, John S. Murchison to the post of executive secretary of the Texas Board of Public Welfare, and Mr. Gentry to the place of chairman of the Texas Highway Commission.

He declared the public should be interested at all time in the complete highway program for the commission faced tasks and problems which needed the sympathy, support and advice of the people as a whole. He pointed out there were few automobile registrations and state highways when the department was formed about 1917, but now there are some two million vehicles registered in the state and some 23,000 miles of state roads, and added about twenty years time and an estimated six hundred million dollars would be required to complete the program.

Mr. Martin declared the thirty-million dollars received for all highway purposes annually was a pittance, and analyzed the more than five cents per gallon tax paid on gasoline showing the highway department received only two cents of the amount and from this had to pay for the operation of the Texas Highway Patrol and administrative costs in addition to construction and maintenance. He also pointed out that in addition to problems created by heavier commercial demands the national defense program had resulted in new complexities.

Praise For Gentry.

He paid tribute to the commission chairman as a good commonsense Texan who had made every effort to familiarize himself with the problems of the entire state as soon as he took over his duties.

Chairman Gentry declared that he was glad to be in Corsicana where people were interested in highway problems and he wanted to give an account of the department's stewardship. He recounted he had visited all but three counties in the state since taking office, and had covered 18,000 out of the 23,000 miles of state roads, as well as visiting 38 states of the union in his studies of administration and constructon methods.

He told his audience he was a native of Van Zandt County and took his first train trip from Athens to Corsicana, and had never been more distant from Corsicana than Tyler. He said the only dislike he had for this city was its ability to beat the Tyler football team on all occasions. He also paid tribute to W. E. McKinney, former Tyler resident.

Mr. Gentry said the highway department was composed of about 7,000 employes who wanted to, were interested in, and were capable of doing a good job for the state if they had the necessary funds.

He said one of the main problems of the commission was a misunderstanding on the part of the public, pointing out the average citizen thought the road program of the state was completed except in his own community and the income was sufficient.

He recalled that he appeared before the commission many times during his eight years as judge of Smith County, but never realized the task before the commission until he became a member of it, and admitted part of the responsibility for the prevalent misunderstanding must be accepted by the commission because of its lack of frankness in the past.

Highway Program.

The commission chairman stated twenty years would be required to complete the present program under available finances. He reported there were some 26,000 miles of state designated highways with some 12,000 constructed and adequate; of the remaining 14,000 miles, some 3,000 are designations only, and the remainder included about 5,000 miles of country roads designated as highways, but not improved. Many of roads built some years ago are outdated and unsafe he reported, and should be rebuilt, and the low estimated amount needed to complete the highway system was 400 to 500 million dollars.

Taking up the financial picture, the speaker pointed out that the five and one-half cents per gallon tax on gasoline amounted to about one-third of the total cost to the consumer; of this amount 1 1-2 cents went to the federal government. He denied the term "federal aid" on roads was correct, terming the federal contribution merely a refund, and while some twenty million dollars annually was paid in, Texas received back only about 8 1-2 millions.

Out of the four cents received by the state, he pointed out one cent went to the public schools under a constitutional provision, and one cent to the bond indebtedness assumption fund, leaving two cents from which refunds, cost of collection, operation of the highway patrol, and administrative costs must be paid.

He asserted the department had about 29 millions available each year for construction and maintenance on a system that required 400, and more roads becoming inadequate each year and the growing state creating new problems. He asserted unless there was a change in the method of financing the department the problems would increase each year, and pointed out needed widening of roads, striping, and other safety features increased departmental costs.

Texas Paying Penalty.

Chairman Gentry asserted the legislature could aid the department by giving it authority to create speed zones so that roads could be constructed to fit conditions and speeds set in such a manner as to maintain safety. He declared Texans were paying a penalty of about 17 million dollars a year because they were forced to operate cars over inadequate highways, and there was no possible salvage.

In discussing the possibilities of the future, Mr. Gentry said he saw no possibility of increasing the tax levy, leaving only increased federal appropriations as a main source of income; he said the department should be able to regain possession of the excess in the bond assumption fund. He said he believed the highway department could expend the funds more efficiently than they could be by 1016 commissioners precincts in the state, and were more badly needed on state roads than in isolated sectors. He told his audience he was willing to talk to any delegation about any highway problem at any time.

FUTURE OF FARMING NEVER BEFORE QUITE SO HARD TO PREDICT

COTTON IS HARDEST OF ALL AND THIS AFFECTS TEXAS MORE THAN ANY STATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Agriculture Department officials say that never before has the future economic condition of agriculture and particularly cotton been so difficult to foresee. The picture they drew included all the south, but was especially true for Texas because so large a part of its cotton goes into world trade.

Asked whether there was a chance the national cotton acreage again would ever be increased, Maurice R. Cooper, senior statistician for the bureau of agricultural economics, had this to say:

"For the immediate future the situation is so very gloomy one would hardly expect an increase in acreage nationally to be at all desirable."

He estimated that this year's export would be only slightly over 1,500,000 bales, compared with over 6,000,000 bales exported in good years.

Whether cessation of hostilities in Europe and the Orient will bring about a restoration of the former consumption of American cotton in those continents one can not definitely say, Cooper added, but reminded that in addition to the increased exportation of South American cotton exports the past few years the Germans have turned to large scale production of synthetic fibers.

While these synthetic fibers may actually cost more to produce and be less desirable than cotton, he explained, the Germans have put plants into operation because of the British blockade and to abandon them once the war is over would create unemployment for thousands.

On the brighter side of the picture was the story of how the government is continually trying to develop new uses for cotton, or methods of processing which will expand present uses. Domestic consumption has increased steadily, and this year and next is expected to be unusually large because of the large national defense orders. Ordered are huge quantities of such articles as tents, bedding, cots and clothing for the expanding military forces.

Director Discusses Cotton

Director of the cotton processing division of the new agriculture research laboratory just established at New Orleans is R. J. Cheatham. For years he has been engaged in laboratories of the agriculture department in Washington.

Discussing uses of cotton, he estimated recently that 40 per cent of the cotton domestically consumed goes into clothing, 20 per cent into household uses, and 40 per cent into industrial uses such as automobile tire fabrics, bags, twine and cordage.

He mentioned new uses that had been devolped for cotton and which if accepted on a large scale would greatly increase the consumption of the staple. They included its use as a strengthening membrane in thin plastic products, such as those which might be used in the mass production of low-cost airplanes; the use of cotton in thin slabs of concrete for roofing material and other building uses.

The manufacture of cotton fabrics by means other than spinning and weaving, as by binding the fibers together with low-cost adhesives was given as another possibility for opening up large new markets.

Improving the quality of cotton products already in widespread use was offered as one means of increasing the total consumption. This might be done through chemical finishing, especially in clothing and household uses, to add luster, softness, crispness or resilience, crease resistance, moisture aborption, waterproofing. These are among the probems and possibilities to be studied at the New Orleans Laboratory.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND POISE

By VERONICA DENGEL

BEAUTY AIDS F OF THE ASKING.

One day this week I suggested that you send for my booklet on the care of the hair; and at that time I made a note to tell you about my other charts for which you may send without any charge. All you need to do is enclose a stamped, velope, and I shall be happy to mail the chart which you specify. If you wish more than one—that is all right, too.

Veronica Dengel

For the overweights—those girls and women who wish to get a new figure for the New Year—my Reducing Diet, and the One-Two Three-Reducing Diet, will prove helpful. ctual meal by meal menus are given so as to take all the guesswork out of your planning. Then, there is the "Diet Outline and Reducing Rules" which lists all the things you must not do to achieve satisfactory results on your reducing program.

Or perhaps you are underweight and would like to put on a few pounds? It is very true that clothes look better and your general physical being is better when you are at normal weight. My Weight-Gaining Diet will give you varied types of meals, and many, many girls have built up to normal weight with this regime.

It is always a good idea to follow a House Cleaning Diet both Spring and Fall. A two week regime such as outlined on this diet will clear away much accumulated waste in the system. You are well accustomed to doing this in your house—why not do it for your personal house?

For those of you who do not understand the correct Classification of Foods—what are Proteins, Starches, Sugars, Acid Fruits, etc. I would suggest sending for the Food Classification Chart. It is nice to tack up in the kitchen for ready reference. Sometimes a happy change in vegetables and fruits for your menus is suggested by these lists of foods.

And are you sure that your measurements are in proportion to your height, age and weight? My chart on this will help you to determine just what you should weigh and measure. It also has spaces for recording changes from week to week when you start your campaign for perfect proportions.

Then, if you are planning all sorts of new resolutions for the New Year, a clothes budget is probably part of it all. If you have less than $5.00 a week to spend on clothes—and it is well planned—you can still have a very satisfactory and complete wardrobe. My budget plan and shopping suggestions will be sent to you if you ask for it.

Plowing Time Next Week

When it is dry enough to plow you will want to be ready. If you are still plodding along with old mules, you are not ready to do the job right, so why delay longer? Get a FARMALL—one that will do the job right when you need it.

We have a number of used ones of sizes that will fit your acreage. They are all repaired and guaranteed to give you service that you should reasonably expect. In our barns we have most a hundred head of mules, mares and horses of all ages and prices. Surely you can find what you want.

If you need used implements, we have a lot full of them so cheap you won't miss what they cost. We also have several used pick-ups that will interest you, so don't go further if you need anything for the farm.

Your Tractor possibly needs an overhaul job. We will haul it here and return it free of charge, overhaul it with genuine FARMALL parts, using skilled labor. While it is here we will clean and paint it for you for only $7.50.

Remember, we have 10,000 parts for all McCormick-Deering tractors and implements!
